Election Board rules against them they'll go to court.

The last kick of opposition to Mr. Hearst's decision that he alone of his organization should run on the fusion ticket was made by the old Independence Leaguers of The Bronx yesterday afternoon. There was rumbling and grumbling and growling pretty generally all over the city when Mr. Hearst let it be known that he intended to play a lone hand, but the fuss quieted by Saturday night except up in The Bronx. The Hearst folks up there insisted on running Col. John F. Kirby for president of that borough. They didn't want to endorse Mr. Miller, the fusion candidate. However, at a mass meeting yesterday afterever, at a mass meeting yesterday afternoon Col. Kirby withdrew and asked the Hearst men of The Bronx to indorse Miller. That ended it.

Inspector Sweeney recently received letters about the place from women will in Richmond, Alfred E. Steers in Kings, Miller in The Bronx and McAneny in Manhattan. Many of their Assembly and Aldermanic candidates will be Republicans and some of the investigation, one Republican from above the Bronx, Mr. Hinman, thirteen Democrats from below The Bronx, and three Republicans. The Hearst people will inche to check inefficiency. Waste and lax discipline.

"It will be noted that Senators Hinman and Newcomb voted against the suspension of the rules. Had they voted with the other twenty-four Republicans, most of them from up the State, the rules would have been suspended and in all probability Mr. Agnew's bill, which Mr. Parsons says: 'Was so vital to secure honest elections in the city of New York,' would the had been sending men out for several had been passed.

He got into the confidence of two, and when he broached a crap game he was invited to the Humboldt street place on Saturday night. Inspector Sweeney arranged a raid to take place at midnight. When Bilaffer reached the place just before 10 o'clock Saturday night he found a dozen men already there. The reputed proprietor of the game, George Lenox, warmly welcomed him. When midnight came Bilaffer's cash had run how and he was becoming uneasy because the raiding party hadn't appeared. Just as his last coin was down he heard a noise in front of the house and was astisfied the raiders were on hand.

Leaping on a chair Bilaffer showed his shield and warned every one to remain quiet. A dozen policemen rushed in and placed the players and also Lenox, as well as Malachy Donnelly, the owner of the premises, under arrest. At the Herbert street police station Donnelly was held on a charge of permitting gambling to go on in his house, Lenox for ruinning a game and the other twelve as common gamblers. RAINES'S REPLY TO PARSONS

NO CONSPIRACY, HE SAYS, TO DEFEAT ELECTION BILLS

And Secure Democratic Votes for Speaker Cannon-He Shows by the Record That Only One Up-State Republican Voted Against the Bill and 20 for It.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Oct. 10.-State Senator John Raines made to-day the following reply to Herbert Parsons's charge of a deal on the part of up-State Republicans to secure Democratic votes for Speaker Cannon by defeating amendents to the election law:

"So much interest has developed in regard to the statement made by Herbert Parsons that very important amendments to the election law were defeated by the up-State Republican Senators on account of a deal to secure Democratic votes for the reelection of Mr. Cannon as Speaker and the adoption of the Cannon rules that I have been requested by telegrams from many papers printed in New York Fight—Canvassing Hearst Sentiment. in reply to the charge made by Mr. Par-The Hearst managers were quite sure sons. I have delayed replying to Mr. last night that they would not have to Parsons until I could ascertain the facts and read the several bills introduced by Senator Agnew.

"On March 18 Senator Agnew introduced seven bills to amend the election law. He also introduced a bill on April one on April 7 and another on April importance, attracted no attention and the introducer before the Judiciary Com-Mr. Gehring had an idea that the Board | mittee, to which they were referred. "This is the bill known as the identifica tion bill, the passage of which Mr. Parsons says 'was so vital to secure honest elec for the petition filed with Mr. Dooling on tions in the city of New York,' and this Saturday afternoon went on swiftly yeswas defeated on account of the alleged deal between the agents of Speaker Cannot and the up-State leaders. I have said there was no such deal to my knowledge. Mr. Parsons has cited the defeat of this bill as the result of that deal. The vote to suspend the rules, as I have stated, was taken on April 29, and the Senators are recorded as follows:

"For the suspension of the rules: Sena tors Agnew, Allds, Brough, Cobb, Cordis Davis, Gledhill, Grattan, Hamilton, Heacock, Hill, Holden, Hubbs, MacKenzie Meade, Platt, Raines, Rose, Schlos Travis, Wainwright, White, Witter, al Republicans and with four exceptions all from above The Bronx.

"Those voting in the negative were Senators Payne, Burlingame, Caffrey, Cronin, Cullen, Frawley, Gardiner, Grady, Harte, Hinman, Kissel, McCarren, McManus, Newcomb, Ramsperger, Schulz, Stillwell, C. D. Sullivan, T. D. Sullivan, Wagner, three Democrate from above The Bronx, one Republican from above The Bronx, Mr. Hinman, thirteen Democrats

"In view of this record, what becomes of Mr. Parsons's statement as to the conspiracy on the part of up-State Republicans to defeat this legislation in the interest of Mr. Cannon's reelection as Speaker, and what becomes of Mr. Parsons's charge of bargains on the part of up-State Republicans with Democrats for the defeat of this legislation? Let him charge it to Senators Newcomb and Hinman, who voted against it, or to Senators Allen and Davenport, who did not vote

"The fact that on the last day of the session Senator Agnew's motion to re-consider the vote by which the motion to suspend the rules was lost on the previous day failed to receive the neces votes, and that several changes of votes were made on that day is not a factor as evidence of a bargain, because it was thoroughly understood that to carry such a motion meant that no business what-ever would be done before the hour fixed for adjournment of the Legislature.

"It is not necessary to discuss the merits of the bill. I find I voted for it, but have some doubts as to whether I should MONTOLAIR, N. J., Oct. 10 .- The Right ever do so again, as it virtually makes through challenge the answering by each voter of all the identification questions which are put on the four days of registration. Under such a system the possibility of a blookade at the polls on the one day of election would seem to be very great.

"The only other bill on which a record was made was Senator Agnew's bill, introductory No. 815, for which Mr. Ward's bill was substituted. The bill is one which I have always favored, it being a restoration of the eletion law to the form in which it was first passed, providing that election districts should consist of 400 voters. But the motion to suspend the rules was made on the last day of the session and the vote was taken on a motion to lay that motion on the table, and that motion to lay or table was carried simply because that to consider the bill then would have resulted in blocking most important legis-lation. This bill does not seem to be of that important nature which would authorize Mr. Parsons to charge a conspiracy between up-State Republicans and others

"So much for the legislation the defeat of which, Mr. Parsons asserts, is evidence of the conspiracy between up-State Republicans and Democrats. Let me say to Mr. Parsons and the public that there has not been to my knowledge at any time any bargaining between Democrats and Republicans as to any political legislation whatever. The fact that while by favor of my associates I have been made Republican leader of the Senate for many years and that during that time there has been between the Republicans and Democrats a comity of feeling which has in the main prevented filibustering and facilitated the transaction of the public business is not evidence of bargainings and deals between leaders. In fact a leader of majority or minority of the Senate who should not prove himself capable of maintaining such a degree of peace as would promote the transaction of the business of the Senate would soon find himself superseded.

"The relations between myself and Senator Grady as minority leader have "So much for the legislation the defeat been the same as they were between the lamented Ellsworth and Senator Grady. We hold our positions for the purpose of promoting the orderly transaction of the business of the Senate and not to make deals or bargains affecting the passage of one act or another. There is no reporter for the press at Albany who does not fully understand this, and so would write if the editor of his paper would give him the privilege.

"Mr. Parsons has gone a little out of his way to say that the fact that a son of mine holds a position under Comptroller Metz as an auditor of accounts is sufficient evidence that I am a Tammany supporter. If Mr. Parsons were to refer to the list of voters on his important election bill he may find in that enough perhaps to compel a change of view on his part. I have heretofore stated that I did not request the appointment of my son as an auditor by Comptroller Metz. If I read the papers correctly it seems to me that Comptroller Metz when he made that appointment in the summer of 1908 was hardly doing it under orders from the gentleman recognized as in control of Tammany Hall, for I think I have heard that the relations between Mr. Murphy and Mr. Metz were a little strained. Certain it is, however, that the young man secured his position on the recommendations of gentlemen well known in the city of New York, with neither of whom did I ever communicate in regard to the matter.

"I am at a loss to know what caused the matter.

"I am at a loss to know what caused the Hon. Herbert Parsons to make such a statement as he is credited with. If I alluded to him as a young man it can hardly be said that it cast any reflection upon him. Had I said he was a wise man a great many people would have thought I was mistaken. Had I said he was a capable leader I presume at least Mr. Parsons would not have disputed it. Had I intimated that he gave Brother Woodruff the double cross on the Commissioner of Elections some people might think it was lections some people in a large inwarranted.

"I regret very much that Mr. Parsons should have seen fit, for some reason to me incomprehensible, to have attacked the leaders of the up-State Republicans. I hope this communication will satisfy him that such attack was unwarranted and that he will devote himself from now until election to securing votes for the and that he will devote himself from now until election to securing votes for the candidates of his party. It is well that he should remember that one of the most important features in the prevention of casting illegal votes is to keep the names off the registers. In the effort to do that a Republican Legislature has gone about to the limit. Let him use every legitimate effort to secure a full and honest registration of the voters of New York city. "J. RAINES."

POLICE BUREAU CRITICISED. Municipal Researchers Say Repairs and Supplies Are Laxly Handled.

The Bureau of Municipal Research as been looking into the administrative and accounting methods of the bureau of repairs and supplies of the Police Department. It made public yester-day the results of the investigation, together with a number of recommenda-

They found that police officials did not appreciate the importance of the business machinery in its relation to the general work of the department. Penalties for violation of clerical rules were not enforced strictly, incompetency and inefficiency went unrebuked, and there were not sufficient rewards offered for good work in the business end of the department. Waste, carelessness, poorly kept reports, the placing of large orders without competition, the increasing of amounts on requisition and orders without authority, overpayment of dealers and unauthorized purchases are some of the abuses the munucipal researchers object to. Also the accounting procedure is described as clumay and inaccurate.

Civilian clerks, the investigators recommended, should be appointed to take the place of regular policemen now at work in the business side of the department. The legal bureau connected with the Third Deputy's office should be made responsible for the preparation of contracts. Police officials should be held strictly responsible for infractions of rules by their subordinates. Stock experts should be appointed, Complete and accurate estimates of supplies and materials should be made annually. A repair force should be organized to make all simple repairs to police bicycles, motorcycles, wagons, automobiles, &c., and a shop and tools should be provided for the force.

In addition to a number of recommendations designed to introduce plain business methods into the department the municipal researchers suggest that policemen be made to feel that the business side of the department is to be looked upon by those in charge as equal in importance to the police side and that they will not only be promptly punished for poor work and infringement of rules but will receive rewards for efficient work in clerical places as they would for efficient police duty.

RABBI WISE ON GAYNOR

ermon yesterday morning at the Free Synagogue condemned Justice Gaynor for accepting Tammany's nomination. He contrasted the action of Justice Gaynor with that of President Cleveland, who when nominated for Mayor of Buffalo refused to take the nomination until he knew the character and merits of the men who were to be nominated with him. The party bosses insisted on having a voice in the makeup of the ticket and Mr. Cleveland finally forced the bosses to accede to his demands. Continuing Dr. Wise said:

"Judge Gaynor's record of good service is effaced by his act of 'hiring out' to the men whom he has called 'the miserable bosses and their harlotlike tools.' He has chosen the easy path. He has preferred a nomination with what he imagines to be the certainty of victory to a nomination from the independent citizenship of New York, which would not guarantee his election, and what are we now to think of his words in the past years, during which he has bitterly arraigned the cor-which he has bitterly arraigned the corrupt and lawless bosses of his party?

When Tammany Hall nominates a ticket made up of Roeschs and Sullivans and Hagans it is altogether fitting and proper, but when a Gaynor consents to lead such a ticket the respectable becomes little less than tragic. Men are said to rise on the stepping stones of their dead selves to higher things. It must be that Judge Gaynor dreams of rising on the stepping stones of his finer self to the higher things of political fame and power.

The difference between Judge Gaynor and his fellow candidates is that while they are sinning in darkness he is simning and his fellow candidates is that while they are sinning in darkness he is sinning against the light. Without assuming to interpret the visions which come to Judge Gaynor, it is hard to believe that the Tiger has assumed the form of an angel of light and has bidden him to take up the battle on behalf of a finer, nobler New York.

up the battle on behalf of a finer, nobler New York.

"As for hearing the voice of God in Tammany's mandate to accept its nominations, one is reminded of the words of the poet: 'God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform.' But there is nothing mysterious about the body which asks him to lend it for a time a cloak of respectability. Everything about it is plain and unmistakable and it is known of all men that Tammany Hall is one of the most corrupt political organizations in history.

Perhaps Judge Gaynor thinks of changing Tammany Hall, although the character of his associates on the ticket gives no indication of preelection conversion on its part. If there be those who believe that Judge Gaynor can change that organization for the good and the better why is there no evidence of such a change in the personnel of the ticket which is led by him? Should he and his associates be elected he will at best become a negligible factor, for he would be outvoted in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and would by his associates be doomed to be little more than an earnest, well meaning, vociferous figure."

FARMERS FLOCK TO CORNELL The State Agricultural College Overcrowded With Students.

ITHACA, Oct. 10 .- The State College of Agriculture at Cornell University is already so overcrowded that its offic do not know where they will put the hundreds of "short course" students who are expected in the winter, and even if the Legislature should give relief, the professors will not know what to do with the increase in the meantime. This was the statement of Acting Director J. M. Webber in commenting on the crowded condition of the new State building. Director Webber said that the registration this year was over 500 regular students, as compared to 965 last year.

In the first year the members of the entering class take a great deal of work in the other colleges, but the director says that when entering their lest two years they study purely Agricultural College subjects. There will be no room for them in the classrooms. Based on past records, when the young farmers of the State who flock here in ever increasing numbers to take the twelve weeks course in winter arrive there will be a total registration of from 1,200 to 1,400, far beyond the seating capacity of the lecture rooms and laboratories of the college. The new college buildings were constructed several years ago, the State appropriating $230,000 for them after a long fight in the Legislature, in which representatives of other universities and colleges in the State bitterly opposed the appropriation. trail of straw in tree branches and along the road.

For fifteen miles Fletcher followed this trail until it landed him in the yard of John Daken at Arcola. There was the rye straw in a wagon. Daken said the straw was his own and he had threshed by hand. Justice Ackerman was called to the place and when Daken said he had threshed the rye by hand he was asked about the knots in the string around the bundle.

"Only threshing machines tie such knots and I will hold you under $500 bail." said Justice Ackerman.

The straw is worth about $30 and Daken's round trip covered thirty miles and must have taken him eight hours. He has been arrested several times on various charges.

GOV. FORT TO INSPECT.

Will Visit All State Institutions-Wants a Central Purchasing Board.

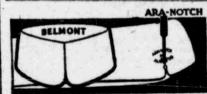

Governor J. Franklin Fort of New Jersey is preparing for a personal tour of all State institutions and the institutions to which the State lends financial assistance. The object of this trip, assistance. The object of this trip, it is said, is to have them all placed under a central board so far as the purchasing of supplies is concerned.

The Governor believes that by the establishment of such a board the State could save $100,000 or more annually. It is said that such a plan will be advocated in the next annual message when it is sent to the Legislature in January.
